

SOCIETY CROWDS TO HORSE SHOW LIKE OLD DAYS

Beautiful Matrons in Gorgeous Gowns Share Interest With Equine Exhibits.

PONIES HAVE A DAY.

Many Women Among the Exhibitors in the Ring—Polo Rider Gets a Fall.

It's like old times at the Horse Show. As the great annual display gets into full swing the crowds become larger. Society is rallying with enthusiasm. It was out in force last night, but not as it will be to-night and to-morrow night. To-day is the big day.

All doubts of the directors have been dispelled. They were not convinced Monday night, but waited for last night as the "key" that would decide the success of the show.

"It'll last as long as the city does," declared one as he looked over the throng last night. Outside were long lines of autos and busses. Inside the arena, balcony and boxes were well filled, the promenade teemed with life and the gala spirit was everywhere.

There was much stalling, much going about from box to box, and many occupants of the latter were in more elaborate toilets than have been seen in some time in New York.

Ponies the Favorites.

The ponies got most of the hand-claps yesterday. The hackneys also came in for applause. The ponies had two hours to themselves, to the delight of the children.

Society came somewhat late last night, but by 10 o'clock the brilliant scene was at its height. Not only was the attendance better, but the class of events in the arena was better and more varied.

Mrs. Henry Siegel, Miss Carolyn Pellowes, Mrs. E. D. Morgan, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt and Mrs. Elbert H.
Gary were among the most conspicuous for gorgeous gowns.

Among the most noticed of the beautiful women present was Mrs. Rula, who was in an upper tier box, just above the Reginald Vanderbilt box, and came in time to see Alfred G. Vanderbilt's entries win first and second prizes. She was gowned in brown, and had the box only for the afternoon. She remained in the background most of the time she was there, but once went down the promenade through a battery of fornettes.

Last night the costumes of the women showed the semi-Empire-Directory period has arrived. Most of the more noticeable ones represented a large outlay of money.

Vanderbilts Drive Tandems.

Both the Vanderbilts boys drove their tandems when the event came off, thirteen being on the list. Miss K. L.
Wilks, a well-known Canadian whip, was among those who attracted attention.

The recklessness of those who rode the polo ponies earlier in the evening aroused great enthusiasm among the spectators. Buster Brown, a pony ridden by Louis Strauss, slipped and fell, throwing the rider to the ground, but he was soon mounted again.

Mrs. Edwin H. Weatherbee competed in the class for saddle horses, also Mrs.
Herbert C. Cox, on Lady Jasmine.

The Alida Challenge Cup becomes the property of J. W. Harriman, as it was won by him both yesterday and last year by his bay gelding Flashlight.
Toronto horsemen were well represented yesterday and Canadian horses took a number of prizes.

Mrs. Edith Preece, a well-known English horsewoman, rode a saddle horse, flying the colors of the English Chase Stag Hunt, of Hertfordshire.

STATEN ISLAND

An entertainment under the auspices of the Seaside Dramatic Club of Westfield, will be given this evening at the retary; Miss Alice T. Mahony, treasurer,

INSPECTOR DIES, ANTHRAX VICTIM

Contracted Disease in Government Service—Fiancee Is With Him at End.

From a slight abrasion on his face Louis W. Flieg, an inspector of cattle for the Government, contracted anthrax in a Manhattan abattoir and died with his fiancée, Miss Florence Kretschmann of No. 98 Chauncey street, Brooklyn, at his bedside. They were to have been married Jan. 1.

Mr. Flieg went to his home, No. 52 Fenimore street, Flatbush, early last week on a brief vacation. A small pimple that appeared on his face swelled rapidly and he finally called a doctor.

It was decided that his only hope lay in making an incision and removing much tissue, which was done.

During his illness Miss Kretschmann constantly remained at his side, but the operation did not benefit him and the malady spread, causing death. His nature was determined from an examination of the tissue that had been removed. It is very rare among men, and is not necessarily fatal.

HIGH CHIMNEY BREAKS, MEN ON TOP OF IT

They Escape, and Now Mass May Fall, Wrecking
the Building.

Half a ton of steel chimney suspended by a single steel rivet nearly a hundred feet above the roof of the Public Service electric light power house at Orange, N. J., is giving the concern great worry. Should the mass of steel fall it would crash through the roof of the building and cause great damage.
The trouble started yesterday afternoon when two stepladders were employed to saw off the top of one of the three six-foot chimneys that rise 109 feet above the building, and lower it to the ground. While they were fastening the tackle the stack suddenly broke beneath them, nearly hurling them to the pavement.

Unhappily by the accident the men climbed down, and, when sufficiently recovered to tackle the job again, found the chimney so rusted that it meant coursing death to climb it. They also found that the broken end of the chimney hung over the stump in such a way as to make it impossible to fasten tackle to it. The men are now working to swing a tackle from the adjoining chimney and hope to it to lower the broken mass of steel.
